Classic Games to Play with Friends

You don't need a TV screen to play games with your friends! One of the best ways to have fun is playing games outside. Here are a few games you can play with a group of friends this spring.

Hide and seek: A fun game for every age! One person who is "it" closes their eyes and counts to 20 out loud while everyone else hides. After counting, the person who is "it" opens their eyes and tries to find everyone else. The first person to be found is the next "it."

Red light, green light: One player is the "stoplight" and stands away from everyone else. When the "stoplight" says "Green light," the other players move toward them. Saying "Red light" means the other players must stop. Whoever reaches the stoplight first wins.

Red Rover: Split into two teams. Have each team form a line by holding hands and face the other team, about 20 feet apart. Each team takes turns yelling out, "Red Rover, Red Rover, let [player's name] come over!" That player then runs over and tries to break through the other team's line. If they don't break through, the player must join the new team. If they do break through, they get to return to their original team and take a player along with them. The game ends when the final player on a team can't break through the other team's line.

Simon Says: Start this game by choosing one person as "Simon." Simon tells the other players what to do by saying "Simon says [some action]." Players must then do that action. But if Simon tells players what to do without saying "Simon says" first, anyone who does the action is out.

Don't let your money go missing, like Daniel did. Store your money in a piggy bank or jar until you can deposit it in your Navigator Credit Union savings account.

Thing About Spring?

Fill in the blanks to create your own silly spring story. Use the part of speech shown by each number.

One day, two friends were talking about what they like best about this season. Jessica likes spring because the 1 turns warmer. Pedro enjoys it because spring training means the baseball 2 is about to start. Spring's warmth helps the flowers 3, Jessica said. And the rain makes the grass turn 4.

There were so many reasons to like 5. Why couldn't they 6 one they could agree on? Pedro said 7 that it's fun to see the baby 8 that are born in the spring. Don't forget the ones that hatch, Jessica added. 9! They found something they both agreed on.
